Happiness is in Pursuit of Adam Mason's Pants, in a light breeze with every scrap of sail cloth devoted to the enterprise. Under competent hands the largest sail area wins – and on Saturday at least the results were in order of sail size.

Captain Dinghies Beccy Kestin thanks all those supporting the fleet on the day

A great credit to all those behind the action for selflessly putting themselves forward for duty

McD & Beccy make it look easy in a small messy chop and gentle swell

Adam finds wind tight to the mark beyond the oily calm

Blue skies and smiles at race end – despite a becalming in the Sargasso sea at Committee mark

Beccy plucks at light airs and gracefully keeps the spinnaker filled.

Brooks finds there's nowhere big enough on a laser for a wind dance – unless sailed as a windsurfer.

Sorry Rob – the photographer only managed to get one shot before you scarpered so that gets you a full Page 4 spread
